

Once there was a child,

a child like you,

a child who liked to play,

a child who liked to learn,
a child who was always growing.

This child was sweet, smart, strong,
and sensitive.

This child knew how to dream big.
This child knew how to give freely.
This child knew how to love deeply.
Every day, this child changed the world.